

One day a girl named Rose went camping with her family in the woods and it was night time. Rose heard something but her family didn't believe her when she told them, she went to sleep acting like nothing happened but she heard it again and went outside to see what it was. There was nothing but a bush moving. She thought nothing of it she kept walking but it kept moving so she went to go check it out a monster came out of it it had a bloody mouth and no eyes and chased her down the woods. She fell and called for help no one responded or helped her until... her father stood behind it. The beast turned around and ate her father. Rose's mom helped her get back up and they ran as fast as they could but it was too fast and it killed her mother. Rose wanted to cry so bad but she couldn't because it would have slowed her down. She found a house and got inside and slammed the door. She let all of her tears out and said "WHY WHY" she fell asleep and woke up and looked out the window to see if the monster was still at the door it wasn't there. Rose heard a knock she also heard her sister's voice say "let me in please" so she opened the door. "How did you get here?" asked Rose "a monster chased me and it led me here" "oh okay" said Rose. Rose was surprised because her sister wasn't acting the same so Rose asked her sister what the monster looked like? her sister described the monster perfectly. Rose was surprised because her sister had said "i only saw a glimpse of it because i was running so fast" Rose asked "you're not really my sister are you?" "Wow you are really good at figuring things out" the monster with no eyes and bloody mouth turned back into its original look "please don't hurt me" then she heard her mom's voice say "ROSE wake up" she woke up and heard the same noise she went back to sleep because she thought she was imagining it so she went back to sleep. Was it over or was her dream trying to tell her something. THE END or was it?
