

The ghost phone

by, Israel Jiron

A man named Lewis moved to a new house. It wasn't one of the shady houses, it was big, and huge windows, a nice kitchen, and many other nice things. While he was exploring the house he found a box that said "Old stuff keep away." Lewis's curiosity got the best of him. He opened the box but just saw old things like a Gameboy, Gamecube, Nintendo 64, and a typewriter. But the one that stood out the most was a phone that looked like it has never been used before.

"What the, is this a new phone or an old phone that doesn't matter right now let's see if I can power it on," thought Lewis. Surprisingly it turned on but it said no sim card. "I thought so," said Lewis, but suddenly the phone rang. Lewis hesitantly answered it, "Go to the basement, go the basement, go to the basemen-" Lewis hung up the phone, pondering why he should go. Eventually, Lewis built up enough courage to open the basement door. Suddenly he was sucked into the basement.

"AHHHHHHHHH" Lewis screamed echoed on. "You made it, I'm shocked but there is no time I'm Nathaniel I'm a trapped soul. Without your help, I can't go to the great beyond." Said, Nathaniel. Lewis was left speechless, "why is this happening, where I'm I?" Thought Lewis. "Follow me," said Nathaniel. Lewis and Nathaniel are walking into the unknown. "The Soul Keeper is one dark soul, he captured my soul before I was able to the great beyond," Nathaniel said, "But why me?" Lewis asked, "because you were the only pure soul that has ever moved into that house, but keep in mind that the phone you carry is the key to defeating the Soul Keeper," Nathaniel said with a shaky voice.

It seemed as they were walking for hours, Lewis started to get tired. "We're here," Nathaniel said now looking pale like he was scared to face the Soul Keeper. When the door opened Lewis could have never been more scared in his life. The Soul Keeper had black eyes and black ooze spilling from his eyes and mouth. Then Suddenly a black mist surrounded them. "THE PHONE!" Screamed Nathaniel. Lewis took out the phone and chucked it at the Soul Keepers head that boom. Ooze went and some got in Lewis's mouth. "Blah!" Said Lewis while spitting.

"You did it, I knew you could do it," Nathaniel said. Lewis woke up "was that a dream?" Confused Lewis went downstairs but there was never a basement door right there. While Lewis was walking and thinking black ooze started to drip from his mouth. "Finally I can roam Earth," Said the Soul Keeper.
